

Project Team

Prague-based Members

Petr Lang, Program Director of the Prague Security Studies Institute with 13 years of experience with project development, implementation and monitoring.

Barbora Chrzová, Project Manager at Prague Security Studies Institute and a PhD candidate focusing on Bosnia-Herzegovina at Charles University in Prague where she finished her MA in Balkan, Eurasian and Central European Studies. During her work at PSSI, she has gained extensive experience with analysis of Russia's influence activities, published several articles on the issue and co-authored a final publication a NED funded project.

Martin Hála, a leading Czech sinologist and senior member of the project team, will provide his expertise on China's influence activities. He studied in Prague, Shanghai, Berkeley and Harvard, and conducted research in China, Taiwan, and the U.S. He has worked for several media-assistance organizations in Europe and Asia, and extensively published extensively on Chinese activities in the Czech media.

Jan Lalić, MA in Balkan, Eurasian and Central European Studies at Charles University. He intensively studied Arab influences in Balkan Muslim communities.

Ana Grabovac, MA in International Relations and European Studies at Metropolitan University in Prague. She has been involved in several research projects, both in the academic and NGO sphere.

Balkan Researchers

Srećko Latal (Bosnia and Herzegovina), Regional editor for the Balkan Investigative Reporting Network (BIRN); Founder, director and main analyst for watchdog think-tank Social Overview Service (SOS); Analyst for Oxford Analytica, Janes IHS and Economist Intelligence Unit.

WESTERN BALKANS AT THE CROSSROADS: ASSESSING NON-DEMOCRATIC EXTERNAL INFLUENCE ACTIVITIES

Hana Semanić (from Bosnia and Herzegovina but focusing on Montenegro within our project), Research Fellow at the Center for European Neighborhood Studies (CENS) at Central European University (CEU).

Maja Bjeloš (Serbia), Researcher at Belgrade Centre for Security Policy, Consultant at SOS Women's Network of Vojvodina.

Nektar Zogjani (Kosovo), Jiri Dienstbier Journalism Fellow at Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty (a joint program with the Czech MFA), previously Journalist for the Balkan Investigative Reporting Network (BIRN), Gazeta Fjala or news portal Insajderi.

Martin Naunov (Macedonia), Media Litigation Fellow at The Hearst Corporation, Office of General Counsel (NY, USA), previously Research assistant at Middlebury College (USA) and Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS, USA).

Consultant

Adnan Huskić (Bosnia and Herzegovina), Lecturer at University Sarajevo School of Science and Technology, Project manager at Friedrich Naumann Stiftung für die Freiheit, Sarajevo.

Mr. Huskić is currently finishing a chapter covering the influences of Russia, Turkey, China, and UAE in Bosnia and Herzegovina for the edited volume on the Influence of External Actors in the Western Balkans to be published in 2018 by Taylor & Francis.